A GREAT VICTORY.

Washington Republicans Concede This and Give Up the Contest.

Nov. 4.—Crowds are congregated to-night around the newspaper offices where returns are displayed on large bulletin boards. Great interest is manifested in the returns. The crowd is largely composed of Democrats, and the Democratic gains are cheered to the echo. Sets of two to one are freely offered in front of the postoffice building that the next house will be Democratic, but very few are willing to accept the bets. The Republicans have given up the contest, and concede that the Democrats have won a great victory.

At Republican headquarters it is said that if the Democrats carry the next house the president will call an extra session to meet about the 15th inst. The reason for this is that the Democrats have already been elected in a number of States, and the probability of their carrying the next house is so great that it is deemed advisable to call an extra session.

The general election price to last Days of November has been reduced to twenty-five cents.

The papers have been returned to Washington, and in ten or fifteen days the new postoffice will be opened. The election and lot sale November 7, 1890, for the cash payment is $3.00 or more.

Verdict of 3 men.
Special to the Gazette.
PARIS, Tex., Nov. 4.—J. P. Neely has been tried in the Federal court on the charge of murdering George Davis near Marietta, La., in August, 1890. Neely and Davis had an old grudge over some disputed property and, getting in the row near Davis' house, a fight ensued and Davis was shot and killed by Neely. Neely was white and Davis a negro. The jury returned a verdict of manslaughter.

The Spanish have a proverb—'demanded as a pig' is 'too much'. If a man is 'demanded as a pig' it means a great deal of trouble and expense in getting him to do anything. It is a proverb which is very true in many cases.

ILLEGAL VOTING.
An Army of supervisors and Deputies Guarded the polls at Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 4.—There were about 100 Federal supervisors and fifty-four deputy supervisors marshaling the voters in this city to-day. They were all armed with the authority of United States mar-

A FATAL MISTAKE.

A Man Looking for Burglars Shoots His Partner in the Back, Killing Him Instantly. Special to the Gazette.

BURWELL, L. T., Nov. 4.—News reached here this morning of the killing of Jesse McDaniel at the Thomas farm, six miles southeast of here. The killing was done last night and was accidental.

McDaniel was shot by A. M. Barber. Both parties were in business together, known as A. M. Barber & Co. Both parties lived in the same house, and had some money about the house. After dark the deceased man's wife had seen some men walk around the house, and expecting to be robbed, she told Barber about it. Barber went out in the yard in his mule-drawn sled and was standing near where the mules were tied. Barber seeing him asked, "Who is that?" McDaniel made no answer. Barber shot him, killing him instantly.

The shot took effect right above the heart. Barber thought that after he asked who it was that he was shooting, he would be able to shoot him. McDaniel raised his arm as if about to shoot, whereupon Barber shot him, not knowing it was McDaniel. It is also stated that Barber had some trouble with one Dr. Duke a few days ago, and that he had expected some trouble with him. Barber and McDaniel were well respected people. Barber gave up to the officials at Ardmore.
